Don't let traffic, distracting wallpaper or a witness's flashy jewelry take center stage during video testimony. Instead, discover the best ways to produce, edit and present video with topics like:

Why Use Video?

What makes a video deposition so much more effective than just the paper transcript? From capturing incriminating body language to impeachment, see the differences.

Producing the Best Video

Getting quality video is more than just pointing a camera and saying, "We're on the record." Glean tips from the field on scouting your location, achieving the best picture, eliminating sound interference and more.

Remote Options

Save time and travel costs by implementing virtual deposition software with capabilities to share documents, record sessions, view and chat with up to 100 other attendees.

Video as Evidence

When can the deposition officer stop writing? We'll review local rules with regard to suspending the taking of testimony during a deposition.

Video Synchronization

Review your video with a few clicks, create clips, and even export key video testimony to PowerPoint with this time-saving tool.

Video at Trial

See the latest trial presentation tools for implementing video during a trial, including mobile apps that enable you to display your video depositions for the judge and jury.
